Still having Issues logging in?

- Student usernames are in the format ab0987654 where “a” represents the first initial of student’s first name, “b” represents first initial of student’s last name, and 0987654 represents the student number.
- If your student has not changed their password it will still be set to the default. The default password is your student’s student number with an additional leading zero. (i.e. 00987654).
- If your student has changed their password at school, they will need to use that same password to log into the Chromebook.
